IMPORTANT!

Citing material from non-roman script, e.g. Cyrillic, East Asian languages

If you are citing materials from non-roman script, you should transliterate the references to roman script.

For references in the References list:

- The family name of the author should be written in full roman script. The initials of the author(s) should also be given in roman script.
  - The title of the item (article/book/book chapter, etc.) should be given in roman script using the standard conventions for that language (transliteration). For example for Bulgarian language use this – https://slovored.com/transliteration/
- The title should be translated into English and placed in square brackets immediately after the romanised title. The words in the square brackets should not use italics.
- The journal title, or title of a book (if it is an edited book), publisher’s name, all need to be given in roman script, but do not need to be translated. If there is an official English translation, then you may use it, especially in cases where it provides greater understanding of the subject or publication.
